ALSO, AT HUNTINGTON MONDAY NIGHT AND KENOVA TUESDAY MORNING.

Governor James M. Cox, Democratic candidate for President will speak at Ashland, Ky., on next Tuesday, October 26, at 12:30 p. m.

Preparations are being made for giving the enormous crowd that will be present a chance to hear this distinguished man.

The Big Sandy train is due in Ashland at 11:15 a. m., so if it is not more than an hour and a quarter late, the people it carries will hear Gov. Cox.

He will speak in Huntington on Monday night, the 25th, at 8 o'clock, and at Kenova Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock eastern time. Then he will be driven to Ashland by automobile.

MR. FIELDS AT WEBBVILLE 27TH

Congressman W. J. Fields will speak at Webbville in Lawrence county on next Wednesday, October 27th.

This will be the only appointment he can fill in Lawrence county, as the State Committee has made engagements for him that take all his time.

He is thoroughly informed on the issues and can be depended upon to present them in a fair and truthful manner. All the voters, women and men, within reach of Webbville, should go to hear him.

Case Against Gas Co. Heard Wednesday

One of the State Railroad Commissioners from Frankfort was at Catlettsburg Wednesday of this week and heard proof in the case of Louisa, Catlettsburg and Ashland against the United Fuel Gas company for increasing the price of gas in these cities above the price charged from the same lines in adjacent West Virginia towns.

Mayor Snyder, O. C. Atkins, G. W. Atkinson, Ezra Hatten and City Attorney R. C. McClure attended the hearing and part of them testified.

An early discussion is expected.

Mr. Cole Leases Hotel at Catlettsburg

Through Atty. W. D. O'Neal, who looked after negotiations with Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Cole, of Louisa, have leased the Shively Hotel and will take charge of same on November 15. They are said to be fine people and experienced in hotel management. They have one boy ten years of age. Catlettsburg will welcome most heartily this, another excellent Louisa family. There have been a number of such families from Louisa who have made their advent into Catlettsburg within the last year.

Mr. Shively expects to look after his extensive coal interests.—Catlettsburg department independent.

REYNOLDS TO BE POLICE JUDGE OF PIKEVILLE

The Court of Appeals held in the case of George Pinson, Jr., against Edwin P. Morrow, Governor, that W. V. Reynolds was the duly appointed and qualified Police Judge of Pikeville.

In the November election, 1917, Sid Grivette was elected Police Judge of Pikeville. He resigned and Reynolds was appointed to fill the vacancy in the November election, 1919. Reynolds, Pinson, Jr., received a majority of the votes for this office. Reynolds claimed that his appointment was for the full term and the court sustains him in his contention.

PAYING OIL WELLS A MILE FROM PAINTSVILLE

Much excitement was occasioned this week when two good oil wells were brought in. The Commonwealth Petroleum Co. completed a good well on the Hopkins Preston lease in East Paintsville. This well was shot Tuesday afternoon with sixty quarts of nitroglycerine and within two hours after the shot five barrels of oil was bailed out. On Wednesday morning there was three hundred feet of fluid standing in the well. It is estimated that it will produce at least fifteen barrels of high grade Pennsylvania oil if not more, in the Berea sand.

At the Dan Davis farm about one mile from Paintsville a good well was brought in Tuesday by the Kentucky-Virginia Oil Co. This well is about the same size well and same grade of oil as that of the Commonwealth. This well will also produce gas in decidedly paying quantities.—Herald.

A GOOD OPPORTUNITY FOR THE RIGHT BOY

PUBLIC SPEAKERS VISITED LOUISA

Congressman T. U. Sisson spoke at Fort Gay Friday afternoon in the place of Gov. Bickett of North Carolina, who could not be present. He consented to speak at Louisa Friday night and a fairly good sized crowd was out to hear him. He is Mississippi's most prominent congressman, having served 14 years and being ranking member of the most important committee in the House—appropriations. He spoke two hours and a quarter, holding the closest attention of his audience to the last. His knowledge of conditions and history is broad and intimate.

Great Speech by a Woman.

Mrs. T. N. Cotnam of Arkansas spoke at the court house on Monday to a large crowd. No better speech has been made in this campaign and very few that equal it. All who doubt the capability of women to grasp great public questions would have had their doubts dispelled by hearing her. She opened by telling the women that she and other women interested in legislation to save 100,000 infants and 23,000 mothers who die each year from lack of proper attention at time of birth had gone to Chicago and San Francisco. Most of the civilized nations of the world look after this matter. The United States has as yet done nothing. They asked the Republican convention at Chicago to put a plank into their platform on this subject. They refused and one man, on the platform committee made fun of their request. They went to San Francisco and the Democrats put the plank into their platform. 123,000 lives sacrificed every year—90 per cent of them needless. This is more than the United States lost in the awful world war, and it happens every year.

Then she read the important parts of the League of Peace and exploded the falsehoods being circulated about it. She advised everybody to read the entire document.

The Federal Reserve law, the Farm Loan law, and several other important things were discussed in the clearest possible manner. Mrs. Cotnam pleaded with women to vote the Democratic ticket for their own sakes.

She was very gracefully introduced by Miss Rebecca Lackey.

Senator A. O. Stanley.

About the time the NEWS was going to press Thursday afternoon Senator Stanley began to speak at the court house in Louisa. He had spoken at other county seats in the valley this week and goes to Ashland for an engagement Friday night. It is unnecessary to say that his audiences are interested.

Republican Speakers.

Mrs. Christine Bradley South spoke Wednesday afternoon at the court house for the Republican ticket. She was introduced by Miss Garnet See. Mrs. South ranks as one of the best woman speakers the party has.

GRAND LODGE OF MASONS MEETS IN LOUISVILLE

The Grand Lodge of Kentucky Masons met in Louisville Tuesday of this week for their three days annual session. The Grand Chapter meetings were held on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

An important matter before the convention this year is the selection of a site for the new million dollar home which is soon to be built for Masonic widows and orphans, more than four-fifths of the needed money having been pledged.

Representatives of the Louisville lodge and chapter who went to Louisville the first of the week are W. E. Queen and N. D. Waldeck.

BAPTIST SERVICES STOPPED BY ILLNESS OF PREACHERS

The revival services at the Baptist church were forced to suspend on account of the illness of both Evangelist Raborn and Pastor Dr. Anderson.

Mr. Raborn expects to be able to preach next Sunday morning and night. These will be his farewell services in Louisa.

The meetings were having success and the necessity of closing them was quite unfortunate. Dr. Anderson is considerably improved and Mr. Raborn is getting better.

FATAL DUEL AT PIKEVILLE SUNDAY

MALLIE THORNBURY AND CHAS. BENTLEY SHOOT EACH OTHER IN PIKE HOTEL.

Pikeville, Ky. Oct. 18.—Mallie Thornbury, Deputy Sheriff, died at his home here last night as the result of a pistol duel with Charles Bentley, a tailor at the Pike Hotel in the afternoon. Bentley was rushed by a special train to a hospital at Huntington, W. Va., where he died Tuesday morning. It is said he never regained consciousness after undergoing an operation in which an incision was made into the lungs.

W. Young was lodged in jail on a statement of Bentley that after he and Thornbury had shot each other he was then shot by Young, who had grabbed Thornbury's revolver. Young gave the following version of the duel:

"I was in the room with the two men before the shooting. They were shooting 'craps.' I lay down across the bed and went to sleep. When I awoke, Bentley had his pistol in his hand and had Thornbury down on the floor and was sitting on his chest. Thornbury asked me to not let him do that. He told Bentley not to do that. He told me to get out of the room. I ran into another room and heard the shots."

A. S. Short said that he was in a room nearby and that Young ran into his room about the time the first shots were fired and could not have possibly done any shooting.

Bentley was shot twice through the chest and once in the leg, the ball breaking the femur. Thornbury was shot three times through the chest.

Both Bentley and Thornbury were noted for their daring. They had been intimate friends for more than a decade, and Thornbury was wearing a suit Bentley had made for him the day before.

Thornbury was single. Bentley has a wife and three children.

JAS. H. BARTLEY, CONDUCTOR, DIES AT HOME IN ASHLAND

Ashland Independent:—The death of Mr. James H. Bartley occurred at his home in Ashland Friday. He was a well known and popular conductor on the C. & O. railroad, being employed on both the Lexington and the Big Sandy divisions. His death was the result of typhoid fever. He was nearly thirty years of age and had been for several years a resident of Ashland, having come here from Hellier some time before his marriage five years ago to Miss Anna Howard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Howard Sr., who survives him, with one daughter, Dorothy Ellen, two years old.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. John Bartley, of Hellier, and leaves three sisters and one brother, Mrs. J. W. Gray, of Pikeville, Mrs. John Vance, of Chinnville, and Miss Pearl Bartley and Earl Bartley.

A FINGER AMPUTATED. Late Tuesday afternoon little Jack Coleman, while playing, climbed to the top of a porch swing. In jumping down he fell. A ring which he was wearing on the second finger of his right hand caught on a bolt and his weight was thrown on the finger. The flesh was stripped from the finger and a joint was broken. He was taken immediately to the hospital where it was found that amputation was necessary and the finger was removed. He is resting well.

He is eight years of age and is the son of Mrs. Ora C. Atkins.

ISAAC BELCHER AT 91 PASSES AWAY

Isaac Belcher died October 16 at his home at Glenwood, this county. For several weeks "Uncle Isaac" had suffered with gangrene and when he knew he could not recover he was perfectly resigned.

He was born at Dayton, Ohio, in 1829. His parents died when he was quite young and he lived with his stepfather, Joseph Stonebraker at Louisa until 1851 when he married Miss Elizabeth Riffe, who departed this life May 20, 1900. To this union ten children were born, nine of whom survive. Miss May died at a Lexington Sanatorium in 1908.

The children are Mrs. John Jordan of Huntington; Mrs. G. W. Blizzard of Olive Hill; Mrs. Chas. Neal of Estep; Mrs. J. H. Ross of Ashland; W. M. Belcher of Ironton; E. E. Belcher of Pittsburg, Pa.; J. D. Belcher of Prestonsburg; Alonzo Belcher of Ashland; and Geo. B. Belcher, who resides at the old home place known as the Belcher Stock Farm.

A higher sense of integrity than he possessed could not be found. He was genial, big-hearted and honorable. Until a few months ago he had been blessed with splendid health and was always found at home with a pleasant smile for all who knew him. Although in late years his eyesight and hearing were not good, he successfully handled business in livestock with his son, George.

The body was laid to rest on Monday in the family cemetery overlooking the old home, by the side of his wife and daughter. At various times during his life Uncle Isaac expressed desires about his funeral, requesting that it be unostentatious in every way. As far as possible his wishes were carried out, and Rev. James Barrett of Barboursville, W. Va., conducted the funeral services at the home.

He had lived a christian life for many years and during his illness he retained the same sweet spirit and was a patient sufferer. His expressions regarding his faith in the future were wonderfully inspiring and near the end he said he would soon be at rest with loved ones.

STATE ROADS LETTINGS STOP

NO MORE CONTRACTS IN KENTUCKY UNTIL NEXT YEAR BECAUSE OF HIGH COSTS.

Frankfort, Ky.—No more contracts for road building will be awarded this year by the State Highway Commission unless there is a reduction in price.

This policy was announced by Joe S. Boggs, State Highway Engineer, who said that the commission declined to accept any of the bids for the construction of roads in Whitley, Laurel and Barren counties because all of the prices were too high.

The commission believes there will be a depreciation in prices before spring and has decided not to advertise for any more bids until some time in the winter.

STREET PAVING.

The street paving work is making better progress this week, with more labor available. The work is practically completed from the railroad to the hill on Madison street. On lower Main Cross street the foundation is about ready for the slag. The intersections are being put in and the streets will be opened for traffic before a great while.

REGRETS

SCHOOLS STAND STILL

Everybody and everything appear to move forward while the rural school stands still. Few people ride in buggies or surries these days; but the children go to pretty much the same kind of school their parents attended.

That this tendency to let the schools stand still is the same in many portions of the country can be seen from the following extract from a letter written the Bureau of Education at Washington by Governor W. L. Harding of the great and progressive state of Iowa:

"I spent a week last September visiting one-room country schools. I was amazed at the small progress that had been made in the last 20 years in these schools. I was equally amazed at the interest manifested by the people who supported these schools, doing whatever was necessary to improve them."

"Excursions of pupils which were much in vogue before the war are again conducted and on a much larger scale than formerly. During the summer vacation many of the school buildings are opened as 'travel bureaus.' The seats and desks are moved out or placed out of the way, and the schoolhouse is equipped as a pupils' hotel. 'Folksekoln' reports that an arrangement like the following has been found satisfactory: A certain schoolroom in Stockholm is furnished with 22 cots, mattresses, pillows, and blankets, and 6 washbasins. These arrangements accommodate a group of 20 pupils, with the 2 teachers in charge. Towels and sheets are brought by the travelers themselves.

"Every school in the cities is furnished with a school kitchen. Permission is given to the travelers to use this and the cooking utensils in preparing breakfast. The midday meal is taken at some of the inexpensive, and yet very good, hotels that are found at all principal points. All arrangements are made beforehand, so that each bureau and hotel knows when every party is to arrive.

"Boys and girls travel separately. If the trip is short, it is made on foot; if longer, the boys use bicycles. Trips to more distant parts requiring 10 days or 2 weeks are made by rail or steamboat. It is always possible to get very much reduced rates for a school excursion. Pupils from different countries visit each other in this way; the present season will bring pupils together from Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Finland, Holland and Germany."

Even big, rich New York City is beginning to realize that her schools and her teachers are not getting a fair deal. Here is a statement recently published in School Life. It does not speak of rural schools; but the reader can mentally change the figures to suit his or her local conditions and the shoe will fit all right.

"Of the 2,000,000 new automobiles of the pleasure-car type, valued at approximately $2,000,000,000, that will be sold in the United States during the present calendar year, it is conservatively estimated that New York City alone will purchase 50,000, valued $50,000,000. It is estimated that there are in the city of New York 160,000 chauffeurs, whose salaries will amount to approximately $150,000,000. Garage charges (there are 240,000 cars, approximately, in the city) will be not less than $25,000,000, probably much more. Certainly a community that can afford to pay nearly a quarter of a billion dollars a year for pleasure-car service can manage to provide the teachers of its 800,000 children with a decent living. Really, the $36,000,000 paid our teachers for the year-1919 is a bagatelle by comparison."

BETTER SCHOOLS IN NORWAY

Some of the nations on the other side of the Atlantic are pushing ahead in the practical education of their children. Besides school work, children are taken on long excursions so they may become acquainted with what other people are doing in other localities. All of which proves conclusively that we in America must make our schools real schools for real 20th Century children.

The following extract from School Life will give the reader an idea of these excursions which are being developed for school children in Norway:

"Excursions of pupils which were much in vogue before the war are again conducted and on a much larger scale than formerly. During the summer vacation many of the school buildings are opened as 'travel bureaus.' The seats and desks are moved out or placed out of the way, and the schoolhouse is equipped as a pupils' hotel. 'Folksekoln' reports that an arrangement like the following has been found satisfactory: A certain schoolroom in Stockholm is furnished with 22 cots, mattresses, pillows, and blankets, and 6 washbasins. These arrangements accommodate a group of 20 pupils, with the 2 teachers in charge. Towels and sheets are brought by the travelers themselves.

"Every school in the cities is furnished with a school kitchen. Permission is given to the travelers to use this and the cooking utensils in preparing breakfast. The midday meal is taken at some of the inexpensive, and yet very good, hotels that are found at all principal points. All arrangements are made beforehand, so that each bureau and hotel knows when every party is to arrive.

"Boys and girls travel separately. If the trip is short, it is made on foot; if longer, the boys use bicycles. Trips to more distant parts requiring 10 days or 2 weeks are made by rail or steamboat. It is always possible to get very much reduced rates for a school excursion. Pupils from different countries visit each other in this way; the present season will bring pupils together from Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Finland, Holland and Germany."

Do You Want "A Change?"

One of the Republican "arguments" for voting for Harding is:

"We want a change."

This catches some people who do not stop to think what a change from present conditions means.

The people are better clothed and better fed and have more money and greater prosperity than ever before. A change from this condition means to go back to hard times and scarce money. Do you want a change?

A change of the new money system—the Federal Reserve—means a return to the days of panics and Wall Street control of the country's money and credits, which makes the rich people richer and the poor people poorer. Do you want this change?

A change means repeal of the Farm Loan Law that provides for farmers borrowing money at 5½ per cent, on 5 to 32 years time, and one per cent a year added to the interest payments, wipes out the principal and interest in 32 years. Every dollar these 12 Land Banks earn above expenses is applied on loans and this is why 32 per cent pays off 100 per cent. The big bankers who are backing Harding are now trying to kill this law, having enjoined the government from further operation of the Land Banks and they have suspended until the Supreme Court passes on it. This is the only relief legislation ever given the farmers in financial matters. Do you want a change?

In Kentucky the Democratic party always kept the tax rate lower than in most other States. Kentucky voted for A CHANGE last fall and now she has it. When you pay your taxes this fall you will find them from 50 to 100 per cent more than ever before.

Three years ago, when Harding had never dreamed that he would be picked up by a gang of rich Wall Street men and used as their candidate for President, he said in a speech in the United States Senate that one dollar per bushel is enough for wheat at any time. The Democrats believe the farmers are entitled to good prices for their products. Do you farmers want to change to Harding?

The laboring man should compare his wages now with those of former years and decide whether or not he wants a change.

Senator Harding's first announcement after being nominated was, "We want to get back to government by party or group" like the country formerly had—the "good old days." Think it over. How many of you want this change?

In Kentucky the Democratic party has kept the races separate, the policy that is best for both negroes and whites. Do you want a change?

Under Democratic administration the whisky curse was removed by National prohibition and there are more happy homes than ever before, with wives and children better fed and clothed in families formerly kept in poverty by husbands and fathers who spent their money for liquor. Do you want a change?

When President Wilson was elected the United States had no ships. Foreign vessels were carrying all our goods. Now we have enough American owned vessels to handle our own and a great deal of foreign business. Do you want a change?

A cash prize of $25,000 has been offered by Prof. Irving Fisher and other Republicans in New York to be paid to anyone who will prove to a qualified jury of 12 persons that there is any truth in the statement that the League of Nations could send our boys to war. They say "many mothers have been frightened by such false statements and are about to vote against the League." It is a shame to deceive these mothers into voting against the only thing ever proposed for preventing war.

A list of 121 prominent Republicans who have just signed an agreement to vote for Cox and Roosevelt was published in New York Monday.

The League of Peace.

The League of Nations is a LEAGUE OF PEACE and not of War.

President Wilson, one of the makers of the great League plan for World Peace, declares the statement that it will get us into war is an absolute falsehood.

Gov. Cox says if he is elected President and the United States goes into the League, he "solemnly pledges that not a single American boy shall leave these shores to fight, unless the people and Congress send them."

The League has nothing to do with that, as the Constitution of the United States says that only Congress can declare war, and there is no way to change the Constitution except by the Legislature of three-fourths of our States voting for an amendment proposed by Congress.

This is plain enough for anybody to understand.

President Wilson kept us out of war as long as possible. Congress at last declared war. As soon as it was over President Wilson went to Europe, taking with him a large force of experts and diplomats for consultation. In Paris he met the greatest men from the Allied nations and other civilized countries, all sick at heart and weary of war. There in the shadows of the terrible war, amidst the wails of orphaned children and the moans of widowed mothers, surrounded by the graves of the bravest young men the world ever saw, these great men set about to devise a plan to prevent war from again cursing the earth. "Peace on earth, good will to men" was the spirit of that memorable gathering of Christian men. Will you permit anyone to insult you by urging that such a group of patriots, under the spell of that awful period, would bring forth and offer to the war-sick world a plan to increase our war peril?

The League of Nations was born of the travail of that six months in Paris. And it is a wonderful peace document—the only hope of keeping our sons out of war.

It is almost unbelievable that politics would drive men to such an extremity of falsehood as to assert that this great peace plan means war. But it is always possible to fool part of the people. When they ask you "Do you want your boy to go to war in foreign countries," you should tell them NO and that this is the very reason why you are going to vote for Cox and Roosevelt.

If we go into the agreement for peace with 40 nations, not a single nation on earth can afford or will attempt to go to war. But the few who stand aloof and alone must keep great armies and navies trained and equipped all the time. Every battleship costs as much to build as 1000 miles of paved road costs. To maintain it costs as much as the maintenance of three thousand miles of paved road.

Do you want your boy to be drafted as a soldier or sailor to serve in the enormous standing army and navy? Do you want your taxes increased to build and keep up these great fighting machines? Of course you don't. Then vote for Cox and Roosevelt, and we will join the Peace League; and the armies and navies of all the 40 nations will be reduced to a mere policing force.

Cox Challenges Harding to Joint Debate.

Gov. Cox challenged Senator Harding for a joint debate on the League of Nations. Harding's manager rushed to the telegraph office and wired "No." He knows Harding is having a hard enough time debating with himself. One day he takes one side of the question and the next day the other side, and the result is an awful mess.

Senator Beckham.

The name of Senator J. C. W. Beckham is on the Democratic ticket in Kentucky to be voted for Nov. 2nd. There is no better, safer or more honest statesman in the United States Senate today than he. No man in that body is more courageous. He stood for prohibition when it tested a public man's courage to do so in Kentucky. Senator Beckham has a record as Governor that has never been surpassed. He has no money with which to buy votes, for which he is not expressing any regrets, and which fact would not be mentioned except for the reason that his opponent is a millionaire and that there is plenty of money in evidence in this campaign. We must have dry men in the Senate and house to prevent repeal of the Volstead act.

For Congress.

Hon. W. J. Fields should be re-elected to Congress from this district. He supports the prohibition laws, he ranks high in Congress as a member worthy of trust, loyal to his country, untiring in his work, always at his post of duty, a friend to the great common people.

England Does Not Have More Votes Than the U.S.

The statement that England has six votes to the United States one in the League of Nations is false. Read the league covenant and you will find that it consists of two bodies. One is the Assembly, where England has a representative for herself, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and India. The United States has representatives for herself and the Philippines, Cuba, Haiti, and other dependencies. But the Assembly is only a debating body, to consider questions of interest to the League and does not vote.

The Council is made up of nine votes only in which England and her dependencies have only one vote and the United States one, France, Italy and Japan one. These five countries are to have these votes all the time. They select four other nations to have one vote each, changing them from time to time, so as to eventually give all a chance to serve a period in the Council.

The Council is the body that does the voting for the League. Any action taken must be unanimous.

Therefore, unless the United States agrees with any action proposed, nothing can be done by the League. This is safeguard enough for anybody. There is no chance to even make a move toward sending our boys to war unless Congress would instruct our representative in the Council to do so. Congress has declared war several times without the League of Nations and can do so again.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, candidate for Vice President on the Democratic ticket, is a man of large ability and of wide experience in affairs of government. He is an admirable running mate for Gov. Cox.

The Reason You Should Buy Ford Cars Now

I have three Ford touring cars on hands. There is yet considerable time to use them this fall. In the spring the deliveries are very slow. Buy now and you will not have to wait two or three months in the spring for a car. The prices are already down, so you do not have to wait on that.

U. S. Senator Towne, of Minnesota, Declares for Cox

New York, October 15.—"Make it a Holy Covenant crusade from now until the end—other issues can wait two years longer," Charles A. Towne, former Republican United States Senator from Minnesota, today wired Gov. James M. Cox.

The message was sent by Mr. Towne from Tucson, Ariz., where he is seeking a return to health.

"Nothing can picture my unhappiness," he telegraphed, "that illness should keep me silent in this most significant campaign of our history. Let me advise one thing with all my soul:

"Henceforth concentrate on the covenant. I mean not relatively but absolutely. Mention nothing else. Make it a Holy Covenant crusade to the end. Other issues can wait two years."

"This has waited twenty centuries and if we fail in our duty now God alone can measure the cosmic epoch of recurrence."

What Gov. Coolidge said Before He Was a Candidate

Governor Coolidge of Massachusetts, now the vice presidential nominee of the Republican party, in an address of welcome at Boston to President Wilson on his return trip from France, said: "We welcome him with a reception more marked than even that which was accorded Gen. George Washington, more united than could have been given at any time during his life to President Abraham Lincoln. We welcome him as the representative of a great people, as a great statesman, as one to whom we have entrusted our destiny and one whom we assure we will support in the future working out of that destiny as Massachusetts has supported him in the past."

WHAT'S DOING IN POLITICS

Registration figures in the Fifth District, announced officially by County Clerk, prove more encouraging to the Democrats than the unofficial. A total of 112,921 registrants were divided as follows: Republicans, 55,236; Democrats, 46,701; Independents, 10,984. This gives the Republicans a lead of 5,535.

As the majority of the Independent vote is expected to line up behind the League of Nations, the race in this district will prove to be very close. It appears as if the district will not go more than two or three thousand either way.

In his effort to keep the public from learning the true elements within the Republican party, the Jefferson County Clerk did not separate the negro registrants from the total. As a matter of fact, about 25,000 negroes in Louisville and Jefferson County registered Republican, which shows that the whites are divided, 46,000 Democrats, 30,000 Republicans, and almost 11,000 Independents. Were it not for the black voters there would not be a chance for the Republican machine of Louisville, carefully as it has been built up. The same condition holds true in the State. It is only the solid class vote cast by the negroes that keeps the Republicans in the running in this state.

Former President Wm. Howard Taft has recently given advice to others that he doesn't think worth following himself. In defending Article X in the League of Nations in the New York Tribune, August 2, 1920, Mr. Taft said: "I believe that the issue of the League transcends in its importance any Democratic issues, and would justify and require one who believes so to ignore party ties and secure this great boon for the world and this country." Mr. Taft says that he believes so, but instead of ignoring party ties to achieve this great result, he is actively campaigning for the weakest presidential candidate in the history of the Republican party, who proposes to reject the entire League which Mr. Taft regards so vital to the welfare of the world.

Republican criticism that United States was unprepared for war is offset by their own argument that the Democrats were too much prepared for war.

The Congressional "Smelling" Committee, headed by Congressman Graham, Republican, has made the astounding discovery that almost every war move made by the United States had been planned for months before war was declared by President Wilson's Advisory Commission, four members of which are Republicans. In the same breath the Republicans condemn the Democrats for the work of this Commission's labor of preparation, and then condemn the Democrats for unpreparedness.

Negroes of Louisville are in an up-rear of indignation because they are not going to be permitted to sit among the white people at the Gypsy Smith revivals to be held in the monster Tabernacle.

At a recent meeting of colored ministers Rev. M. P. Hunt (white) informed the negro preachers that seventy seats had been set aside for them on the platform. Bishop Archibald J. Carey (negro) asked whether these seats were scattered around or whether they were segregated. The Rev. Mr. Hunt replied that separate arrangements had been made, to which Bishop Carey answered, "Not for us." Negro newspapers of Louisville are up in arms at what they call the Jim Crow Gypsy Smith revival meeting.

The defection from the Republican camp of Herbert Parsons, former Republican National Committeeman, Hamilton Holt, editor of the Independent; J. O. Thompson, former Collector of Internal Revenue of Alabama under Taft and Roosevelt, and the Chicago Evening Post, a paper owned by the owner of the Louisville Herald, can be traced back to the treatment of the Progressives by the Republican party. In the reconstruction of the G. O. P. the Progressives were completely ignored. They were not given any honor in Congress nor offices throughout the nation. Speaker Gillette, of the House; Floor Leader Mondell, of the House; Senator Lodge, Peppose and the others in control of the Upper House, are all deep-dyed members of the high protectionists' old guard.

Contrast this with the progressive element in the Democratic party. Bainbridge Colby, who was Theodore Roosevelt's right-hand man, is Wilson's Secretary of State; Victor Murrillo, leader of the Kansas Bull Moose, has been appointed by President Wilson to the Interstate Commerce Commission; John M. Parker, Progressive candidate for Vice President, was elected Governor by the Democrats of Louisiana and is now supporting Cox and Roosevelt. Small wonder that the former Bull Mooseers are turning to the progressive Democratic party when Warren G. Harding termed their leader and idol, Theodore Roosevelt, "a fakir and crook, and second Benedict Arnold," and called Hiram Johnson "a fakir and a blackguard."

Two of the most noted speakers in the campaign, Bainbridge Colby will be in Louisville on October 22nd, and Wm. G. McDoo will speak in Louisville on November 1st.

"LOOKED BAD FOR ME" HE DECLARES

KEPT GROWING WORSE UNTIL HE ALMOST GAVE UP—TAN-LAC RESTORED HIS HEALTH.

"I thought I would have to quit my job but two bottles of Tanlac have put me back in as fine health as I could want to be in," said John J. Block, 1105 Dumesnil street, Louisville, Ky.

"My troubles started about a year ago and I went down hill until it was all I could do to hold out at work till night. My stomach was in an awful shape and I never wanted to eat anything hardly, for everything disagreed with me. I had rheumatism from the small of my back to my knees and I couldn't sleep well. I felt tired from morning till night and many a time thought I was going to give out."

"Finally I decided to try Tanlac and while I have been taking it only about three weeks it has built me up more than I ever thought any medicine could. My appetite can't be beat, I relish everything I eat and never suffer after eating. I don't feel a trace of rheumatism, I sleep sound every night and get up of mornings feeling fine. I'm as good a man physically as I ever was and never miss a day from work."

LOOK TO YOUR BLOOD

Pale Complexions, Languid Feelings, Lowered Vitality, Need More Red Blood. Take Pepto-Mangan.

So many people spend week after week feeling down and out. They never stop to think that something really is the matter. They satisfy themselves by saying, "Oh, I'm not sick. I'll be all right tomorrow."

And tomorrow comes again and again. Still they feel depressed and languid, scarcely able to get around.

If you don't feel like yourself, you are not yourself. If you are weak and pale, your blood needs strengthening. You should know about Pepto-Mangan, that famous blood tonic. Physicians recommend it and prescribe it because it contains just the ingredients needed to make red blood. It renews your energy, put you where you ought to be. Begin it today. Get the tablets if they will be more convenient to take than the liquid. Both have the same medicinal properties. But be sure you get the genuine Pepto-Mangan. Ask for "Gude's" and be sure that the full name, "Gude's Pepto-Mangan," is on the package. Advertisement.

"All in the Family"

By GEORGE E. COBB

(Copyright, 1920, Western Newspaper Union.)

"Oh, Dora! a letter from father, and he is coming at last!"

In exuberant spirits Winnie Bond waved the missive in question that had just arrived, kissed it gaily and handed it to her married sister, Mrs. Merton. The latter perused it and placed it on the table. Then both sisters broke into smiles as little Wilfred Merton, three years old, picked up the envelope, gravely pretended to read it, kissed it as her auntie had done and thrust it into the pocket of her apron with a sense of importance quite womanly.

The ladies discussed the anticipated return of John Bond in detail. He had been absent for half a year, striving to get rid of some land in Idaho left him by a sister. There had been an alfalfa crop to take care of and now, provided a cloud on the title could be cleared away, an irrigation company was ready to pay a substantial sum for the tract.

"When is father coming, I wonder?" asked Dora.

"He doesn't know exactly himself, but sometime before the first, I think. What a relief it will be for him to get money enough to clear up the debts on the property here, and enjoy life without continually worrying about the needs of tomorrow!"

Little Wilfred wandered off into the garden by herself, and whenever mother and aunt got a glimpse of her they observed that she would take the envelope from her pocket and pretend to read it, talking to herself about "Grandpa coming home," and "post-office" and "property" and "business."

Late in the afternoon Winnie found Wilfred asleep on a garden bench, faithfully clasping the envelope in her hand. Just at dusk she went out to wake up the child and bring her into the house, but Wilfred had finished her nap and had strolled off somewhere. Mother and aunt searched for her but could not discover any trace. Then somewhat anxiously they started out to look for her outside the home precincts.

None of the neighbors had seen her. Nearly half a mile from the house a policeman informed mother and aunt that a little tot answering to the description of Wilfred had asked him the way to the postoffice. That was an hour ago and the now alarmed women hurried downtown.

Various clues were gained and followed down, but fruitlessly. It was dusk when the tired Winnie and her sister neared their home.

"Why?" cried Winnie joyfully, as they neared the gate, "there is Wilfred now!" and both ran toward the spot in the garden whence the merry tones of the little one emanated. There in the dim twilight she sat on the self same bench where she had slept. A young man Winnie had never seen before was by her side, his hand held her own and they seemed the closest of friends.

"Oh! please tell me just one more story!" Wilfred was pleading when her mother rushed toward her, clasping her in her arms in a transport of delight. Her companion arose to his feet and bowed courteously.

"I found the little one nearly a mile from here," he said, "lost and crying. She could not tell where she lived, but happily showed me an envelope giving this address. I brought her here and we have been waiting for some one to come and claim her."

"How can we ever thank you?" cried Winnie, and in the exuberance of her gratitude she took his hand in a friendly clasp, and then flushed at the temerity of the impulse and looked more beautiful than ever in the eyes of a very impressive young man.

Wilfred clung to him clear to the gate and then wept because he had promised to tell her another story. She was so insistent and Mrs. Merton felt so kindly toward Mr. Wilton Bartley, as he introduced himself, that she asked him to stay to tea. His visit ran well into the evening and he received a genial invitation to come again.

Within a month Wilton Bartley was enraptured with the young lady who had flashed upon his life, a bright magnetic meteor. He had traveled a great deal, and one evening in reciting an adventure near a certain town in Idaho, Winnie remarked:

"That is where my father is at present," and told something of his mission there. Bartley looked strangely interested and the next day told his new friends that he was going away from the city for a week or so, and when he bade Winnie good night at the door as clearly as he could without exactly telling her that he loved her, he indicated that upon his return he would have something of special interest to both of them to impart.

Three days later Bartley introduced himself to John Bond in an Idaho town and explained how, through his daughter, he had learned of his identity and whereabouts.

"The litigation you meditate to clear your property," he said, "is based upon an interest which I have inherited from my aunt. I shall settle it by giving you a quit claim deed."

"Why! I can hardly ask that," replied Bond.

"You see," continued Bartley, "Miss Bond and myself have become something more than friends, so let us consider it all in the family," and John Bond understood, and was thankful accordingly.

Why a Distinguished Republican Refuses to Support Harding in His Opposition to the League of Nations

Ellwood Hendrick, the well known writer and authority on scientific subjects, is the President of the Chemists' Club of New York.

By Ellwood Hendrick.

HERE are the reasons why I, an old Republican, intend to cast my vote for Cox and Roosevelt. By way of introduction I want to say that my votes for President have been respectively for Blaine, Harrison, McKinley, Roosevelt, Taft and Hughes. I am not, and have not been, a partisan of Mr. Wilson. I think he must be a difficult man; I am wholly out of sympathy with many of his acts and appointments and I have no illusions about a Democratic Congress or a Democratic Senate.

But as I see the situation now, we are confronted by a question of great principle rather than by one of policy. In order to get the facts into focus we must go back to the journey of President Wilson to take part in drafting the Treaty of Versailles. The point at issue is not what Mr. Wilson might have done or should have done; we are only concerned with what he did do. This is that he was instrumental in getting incorporated into the treaty a plan for nations to settle their common affairs in peace. He avowed this to be his purpose, and he succeeded. We do not need to agree that it was the best method or even a good method; it was a method. The League as proposed was a compromise, as it was bound to be at best; but it was a start, a real beginning of that which humanity has been dreaming of and praying for for a thousand years.

Now, for nations or for collective bodies of men and women generally to work together in harmony, two things are needed: the first is a working agreement, and the second, which is more important, is the requirement of faith. The quality of faith is very subtle; it comes along with our ideals when they are born, but hatred and malice and anger kill it. We can't start much of anything without faith, but with it we can do what seems to be impossible.

When the armistice was signed, and for some time thereafter, this faith was a living thing among the peoples of the earth. The delay in formulating the treaty strained it, but did not break it. The peoples still believed, largely because of the splendid part taken by the United States, in asking for nothing save that the world be made safe for people who can govern themselves. There still abode good will, and the nations signed the treaty because they had faith. The nations signed—except the United States. The United States failed. The Republican majority in the Senate refused to approve. The one time to sign the treaty was when the other nations did and with the least possible delay. Then faith was alive among the peoples; now it is dead.

At this point the opponents of Cox and Roosevelt usually interrupt. "Do you expect the Senate of the United States," they ask, "to be a mere rubber-stamp to do what the President tells them to do?" No. "Doesn't the Constitution provide that the Senate shall confirm every treaty before it can go into effect?" Yes. "Do you want the Senate to neglect its obligation?" Not at all. "Then why shouldn't the Senators scrutinize the treaty?" They should. Here follows usually a torrent of intense vituperation against President Wilson for not taking "somebody" from the Senate—with the name of Senator Lodge usually implied—along with him to help formulate the treaty. It is hard to get a word in edgewise when this flow of talk is started, but after all is said and the cool of the evening is upon us, the fact remains that if the treaty had been signed without delay the League of Nations would have had the real start that was contemplated by men of good will, and that its defects might well have been discovered and remedied all the sooner. This means also that the League would have spoken with such authority as, very likely, to have stopped the bloodshed that is even yet going on; it means that great humanitarian undertakings would have been bringing hope out of despair; it means that the hundreds of thousands of men and women and children, from Danzig clear south to Armenia, who are to this day rotting of disease, who are writhing in the black night of insanity from suffering, would have been brought back to health and decent living conditions. The price of this achievement to the precious Republican majority in the Senate would have been a political advantage to President Wilson, whereas the rule of politics is to cripple the opposition. The political advantage to the President is the one price that Lodge, Knox, Penrose and followers, including the Republican candidate, would not pay.

It is curious on what little issues great events turn. The Republican Senators were indignant because they could get no credit for making the treaty. Of course the making of treaties is the business of the Executive and not of the Senate, but they wanted an advantage, a talking point, a scare-head, a thing to which they could "point with pride" as a special Republican achievement. When, finally they got the treaty they threshed around in despair until something happened. How it happened I do not pretend to know. According to gossip, their leader, Lodge saw the Hon. Elihu Root, a man of immense ability who has rendered great services to the country but who also retains a touch of guile. Mr. Root is said to have read the treaty and to have pointed out a political issue in Article X. Whether this is true or not, or whether Lodge conjured up his sorry comedy out of his own mind, is not important at present. The fact remains that Article X. was selected as the talking point. Of course Lodge knew, as every intelligent citizen knows, that this country cannot go to war except by declaration of Congress. It was merely a talking point, useful to delay action just as the reading of back numbers of the Congressional Record is part of a speech of a Senator who wants to delay a measure to death. There are plenty of other features of the proposed League that are open to criticism, but here was one that could be made to look more important than it was, which was what was wanted. So they talked and talked until the one thing that could have saved the League was dead: the quality of faith among nations. When this opportunity for world welfare was gone, they loaded the treaty up with reservations which destroyed the spirit of the agreement and then passed it. Whether the President was right or wrong to hazard the attempt to persuade other nations to accept such a mutilated proposal is not very important, anyway. The time to do the right thing, the big thing, the time for this country to join so as to make the League a living body was over.

This act, the destruction of the plan for world agreement and world peace, seems to me a veritable cataclysm of dishonor. For a piffling little advantage, because their feelings were hurt, because they were not invited to go to Paris and humiliate the President over there if they could, those Republican Senators with a few Democrats to help them, have done this thing to humanity. Of course they make excuses and say the plan never would have succeeded any way. But we know that it might have succeeded if we had had men of good will instead of men of wrath to represent us in the Senate. The guilt, as I see it, rests on the shoulders of these very men, and I believe it will follow them to their graves and brand them with shame on the pages of history.

Now we are asked to vote for one of their number who admits that he has not even a policy in regard to the greatest question before us and who openly rejoices at the opportunity to yield his judgment and authority to the very men who, with him, have made so many of us ashamed because they caused our country to fail the world in its hour of need. Have we sunk so low that we have lost all the ideals for which our brave boys died? Did Theodore Roosevelt, in his prime, teach us to falter? Did Grover Cleveland live in vain? Has Hearst become the spiritual leader of our people? Can't we even tell the difference between our own ideals of only a few years ago and this weasel shiftiness of partisan politics? What if Tammany did help to nominate Cox, and what if some of his campaign methods are occasionally criticized? What are such things compared to the dishonor of our country, tried in the councils of the nations of the earth—and found wanting—because it refused to play its part. Refused to play its part after our best and bravest had given their all so that we might play our part.

The sick man in Washington has finished his work. He may have some faults, but he had ideals of peace and good will among men. Lodge, Knox and their little coterie of politicians, by their narrowness and their whippit ambitions have killed the faith that made those ideals possible. It does not seem honorable to intrust the government and welfare of our people to them. If we elect Cox and Roosevelt we shall speak to them in the only language they can understand. The great opportunity is lost, but we can begin again to build modestly toward the achievement of peace if, between now and Election Day we can get back our lost ideals and close our ears to the gospel of selfishness and scuttled and broken faith and malice that confuses Republican leaders of the present day.

PIKE COUNTY MAN ESCAPES FROM PENITENTIARY

Frankfort, Ky.—Sawing the steel bars of the hospital ward, where they were confined for treatment for tuberculosis, Joe McCoy, Pike county, sentenced March 19, 1919, to life imprisonment for murder, and John Harn, Campbell county, sentenced April 24, 1920, to fifteen years on two charges of robbery, escaped from the reformatory early Monday.

The patients used their bed sheets to reach the ground from the hospital second floor. A rope hanging from the guardhouse enabled them to scale the outer wall. No guards are on duty before dawn.

HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

There are a lot of things about keeping a home that would seem to be very important, but when you get right down to brass tacks they are not important at all, and the things you haven't given a second thought are the ones that decide whether you are going to be a success as a homemaker.

A great many people have always thought that a good housekeeper was a good homemaker, but this is not true in the commonly accepted sense, for by a good housekeeper we usually mean one whose home is spotless, without a chair or a garment out of place. No mere man is going to feel very happy in such a place. Neither is he going to feel happy in a home that is not kept at all, but is always dirty and disorderly. Yet there is a happy medium that some fortunate women manage to find. A few clear ashes on the floor are not going to hurt anyone. It takes only a few seconds to sweep them up and they are not worth getting cross about. And a few papers scattered about are no crime against humanity. Better let your husband and children be comfortable in your own home so that they will not need to seek comfort elsewhere.

Then there is the matter of personal appearance. Don't, above everything else, greet them at night in the same dress, only more soiled, that you had on in the morning, and with a face fretful and tired. Most women get into the habit of thinking that every day they must do just so much work regardless of their health, and happiness or that of their husband and children. Don't look at it this way. Stop before you get so tired you are dead to the world. Your duty lies much more in the direction of making yourself agreeable to your family in mind and body than it does in getting the ironing out of the way, or the house cleaned from top to bottom. Of course there are times we all know when some things have to be done, but in many homes, these are continuous, and such homes are not the happy ones.

Be a good homemaker above all things. If you can be a good housekeeper at the same time, well and good, but don't let your zeal in the latter crowd out your duty in the former.

We like to see any woman behave as a lady in her own home, but like her opinion, you grant that it is her own. However, when she enters the home of another, you expect her to show that place and her hostess due respect. Most women think they observe this courtesy, but few actually do so, and many believe they can do as they please and "catty" things and go unnoticed except by the one they wish to scorch. They are the highly venerated ones. And they will say at a dinner table, "Oh, yes, this is delicious, but I did love that desert you made last week" or even worse, "But did you ever eat any of Mrs. Brown's. She is such a wonderful cook." They make the hostess feel that although her dish isn't scorched it out to be. Such a diplomat will run over and say, "What time is it? Yes? Well what times does that one thirty train go? I can't imagine how I ever will get down there to catch it." After you have offered her the use of your car, she will thank you with, "Why, I never thought of that. How kind of you." And that is what she has in her mind all the time. Our advice is to leave such people alone if you want to be happy. Just ask her to say what she means, or else talk to someone who can understand her language.

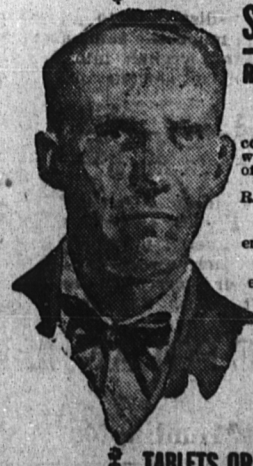

Are you hospitable to our school teachers? We are interested in their welfare, as they are a good financial asset to any town. After all, they are taking a large responsibility in their behalf which means leaving their intimate associates, giving up many things they prefer to do, and last but not least, the things they like to eat. They are supposed to board and room indefinitely, while bringing fresh enthusiasm to their work each morning. No one can feign enjoyment forever. Put yourself in their place and think how well you would like to spend every day with about forty-five or more children just as bad as your own. Go out of your way to break the monotony for them. Of course there are always some teachers with a personality that insures their entrance into the most enjoyable society of every community. But the majority are less fortunate. It is a shame to lose a good teacher the second year, simply because no one has made her feel any particular desire to remain in the town.

STANDS OFF A LOT OF DOCTOR BILLS

Recommends Pe-ru-na for Catarrh of the Stomach, Colds and Grip

"I have used Pe-ru-na for several years and can heartily recommend it for catarrh of the stomach and entire system. I always get benefit from it for colds and grip. It stands off lots of doctor bills and makes one feel like a new person." R. F. D. No. 3, Box 51, Waynesburg, Kentucky.

It is wise to keep a bottle of Pe-ru-na in the home for emergencies. Coughs and colds may usually be relieved by few doses of Pe-ru-na taken in time. Nasal catarrh, indigestion, constipation, diarrhoea, rheumatism or other troubles due to a catarrhal condition of the mucous membranes all call for Pe-ru-na as the successful treatment. The health building, strength restoring qualities of this well known remedy are especially marked after a protracted sickness, the grip or Spanish Flu.

PE-RU-NA is justly proud of its record of fifty years as health protector for the whole family.
